

Press Release Vonnies

The Marco Marchi Mojo Workers at Vonnies 22nd February

After another sell out gig with fabulous Aynsley Lister in January Vonnies brings the first of this years international Blues bands to Charlton Kings Club on 22nd February.

Dave Jones of Vonnies says “When Marco was planning the tour he asked his old friend Kyla Brox where they should play, she unhesitatingly told him “You have to play the Legendary Vonnies at Charlton Kings Club “, this why I am so pleased that Vonnies is the only West country venue on the tour “ he added “ Vonnies audience is regarded across the Blues globe as the one of most knowledgeable respectful to the music they love that is why musicians queue up to play here”

Marco Marchi & The Mojo Workers is an acoustic blues quartet formed by experienced musicians who have been able to carve out a niche in the European Blues scene, they have been increasingly successful with critics and audiences, crowned in winning the Swiss Blues Challenge in 2011.

The band's repertoire is rooted in the traditional African-American music from the first decades of the last century until the 50s, mixing sounds of blues culture (pre-and post-war blues) with ragtime, early jazz, piedmont, ballads, spirituals. All songs are interpreted trying to assimilate the original energy and played with passion and authenticity, disregarding the technical virtuosity. The result: an absorbing blend of sounds filled with pathos of the past.

Dave says “They are a bunch of skilled musicians with their own take on the songs, including a sousaphone instead of a bass how funky is that?”

Vonnies is also pleased to welcome Rossita Teixeira opening for the first time.
